

guest lecture

by Rhianwen Daniel, PhD (Cardiff University):

"Welsh, German and Anticolonial Perspectives on the Relation between Language and National Identity"

time:
09.06.2022, from 2.15 to 3.45 pm

place:
Goerg-Forster-Building (GFG), Room 02-617

Listeners are welcome!

Rhianwen Daniel's research at the Cardiff University includes the relation between language and national identity through the explanatory framework of linguistic relativity. She further examine the implications of the cultural and intellectual significance of language for questions concerning the institutional embodiment of national identity, normative language policy, and the legacy of Chomskyan linguistics.